

IN OGDEN'S SOCIETY CIRCLES

MRS. B. F. CAMPBELL

Bride of Ogden Man Visiting in City Has Had Thrilling Experiences And Is a War Worker

Mrs. B. A. Campbell, Jr., daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Campbell of 2540 Gramercy avenue, whose husband is a lieutenant in the aviation section of the U. S. army and at present engaged in a training camp at Winchester in England, has many surprising stories to tell of adventurous and interesting experiences during the past four years, and a number of city organizations have already listened with profit to her addresses particularly relating to Y. M. C. A. work as she saw it and worked in it at places like the Eagle Hut and officers' inn and in the camp at Winchester where the tale of her eventful life took on another pleasant aspect by reason of the meeting with Lieutenant Campbell, newly arrived from the U. S. A. who wooed and won her there.

At the time of the outbreak of the present war Mrs. Campbell was staying in the city of Berlin with her mother, and saw a great deal of the marvelous alertness of that enterprising nation getting ready to conquer all her European foes; she heard much of the gossip of the town which, at that time, believed the war would be of short duration; that France and England would not deem it prudent to stand against such terrible odds as the efficiency of the German military power would amass against them; she heard much of the anger when Teutonic spleen vented itself on "perfidious Albion," evidently, to the German mind, more perfidious still because England determined to raise an army and fight with all her might, from what she heard at that time she believes that, as Gerard points out in his "Four Years in Germany" the German high command had the trap neatly laid for the bottling up of the North sea fleet of the British navy in the Kiel canal. Like most Americans then living in Berlin Mrs. Campbell endured a good deal of mental torture wondering how long it would be possible for the United States to avert an open break with Germany and when the eventful April, 1917 came with America's unequivocal statement of war she along with many other Americans made haste to evacuate Berlin and that "without any larrying." In transit to the Belgian border and then in Red Cross transports she made her way through the war zone to Paris and managed to cross to London without any worse mishap than the loss of some baggage and very thankful indeed to have gotten through with a whole skin. With American readiness to "help out" Mrs. Campbell immediately set out to apply herself to useful endeavors and found a fine sphere for her activities in the canteen and amusement service of the Y. M. C. A. Finding that work so well departmentalized that she was able to do the service she best could render in connection with the work dealing with the American troops who, when in London, have such splendid places of resort as the Eagle Hut and Officers' Inn.

Mrs. Campbell speaks with enthusiasm of the way in which not only London but all England has welcomed and will continue to welcome the American troops; houses of the wealthier classes are opened and everything possible is done, in the towns surrounding the American camps there to make the cousin from the other side feel perfectly at home. The Y. M. C. A. has a special service whereby American boys are brought into touch with relatives and friends residing in England and in London, no opportunity is lost to make the most of the time the troops are there conducive to a really wide and enlightening knowledge of that wonderful city; touring parties to historic places are arranged every day under the leadership of most competent guides which of the American soldier realize the worth of the British friends whom he has not always seen in the best light.

Many American women who have married Britishers of prominence are giving of their time and money in the most liberal fashion to all the work that affects for the better the welfare of the troops we have sent over; chief amongst these is, of course, the Duchess of Marlborough who is regularly to be seen at the Eagle Hut working on the staff to make pleasant the little time our boys are allowed in the city of many wonders.

Undoubtedly during her stay in Ogden Mrs. Campbell will be heard from on these and kindred subjects to the great delight of many audiences.

During the week the tea room sent out a call for contributions of small but necessary articles and they are still in need. Anyone wishing to aid the cause is urged to send in any one of the following articles:

Linoleum, white oilcloth, glass vases and baskets, dolls, lamps, desk set, broom dust pan, mop, dish cloths, hatchet, coal and kindling wood, tacks, nails, towel rods, soap dishes, electric light globes, linen and paper napkins, roll of wrapping paper, twine, pasteboard boxes for cakes. The committee will also receive at any time cooked and uncooked foods.

SURPRISE PARTY.
Miss Irene Scoville left Ogden last Wednesday for the southern states where she will spend some time. Miss Scoville was the honor guest at a number of delightful little affairs prior to her departure, a pleasing event being the surprise party tendered her last Saturday evening by a number of her friends. The affair was a decidedly pleasant one and the guest of honor was tendered a number of gifts by the following friends: Miss Elizabeth Faris, Miss Edith Weaver, Miss Emma Craze, Miss Doris Morton, Miss Stella Oborn, Miss Pearl Clark, Miss Elizabeth Oborn and Miss June Grey.

WOMEN'S DAY AT ORPHEUM.
One of the interesting events of the week in Ogden was the women's meeting at the Orpheum theater last Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when an enthusiastic rally was held for the promotion of the fourth Liberty loan. The Orpheum theater was packed to capacity and an interested audience heard Mrs. R. A. Campbell give a splendid talk of her experiences as a war worker at the Eagle Hut London where she aided in making life somewhat of a pleasure for the soldiers. Speakers other than Mrs. Campbell included Mrs. W. Mont Ferry, Mrs. L. E. Adams, Mrs. Jeannet Hyde of Salt Lake City, Mrs. H. H. Spencer, Mrs. J. G. Felck, Mrs. Georgiana Marriott, Mrs. E. C. Halsted.

During the week the women of the city have been doing remarkable work in the Liberty Loan drive and have secured a large number of subscriptions to the loan. The headquarters of the women's division has been established in the fourth Liberty loan. Furniture and Carpet company in charge of Mrs. Edward Conroy, Mrs. Edward Bischoff, Mrs. Chapin A. Day and Mrs. Georgiana Marriott.

At the various stores of the city booths have been established by the ladies and good work has been done. Putnam, who has been doing active work in the Fourth Liberty loan drive, spoke to the children and to the parents present in the interest of the Fourth Liberty bond and read the following pledge to the children which she urged them to learn:

I will avoid all wastes, to this I truly swear.
I will be careful of my clothes and everything I wear.
No foolish pennies will I spend, but save that I may give.
To those less fortunate than I, who find it hard to live.
And what I take upon my plate, I'll eat up every bit.
Nor make complaint because I am not fond of it.
And dishes new I'll learn to eat, as far as I am able.
But one thing I will never be—that's "finicky" at table.
This pledge I take because I am a soldier true of Uncle Sam.

LEAVE FOR EAST.
Miss Gertrude Shafter and Miss Maud West have gone to Chicago and other eastern cities where they will visit for an indefinite period.

LUNCHEON FOR HOUSE GUEST.
One of the entertaining affairs of the week was the luncheon given last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. G. L. Ware for her aunt, Mrs. A. E. Gilbert, of Exeter, Neb., who is visiting in Ogden for a short time.

Twenty guests were bidden to the luncheon and the afternoon was spent in a most delightful manner. The home was decorated for the event with sprays of autumn leaves and fall garden flowers, the dining room being especially attractive with its table adorned with a basket of marigolds. The handle of the basket was graced with a lovely bow of gold maline.

Mrs. Ware served a delicious luncheon and she was assisted by her cousin, Miss Ruth G. Kent. Following are the names of the guests who spent the afternoon at the Ware home: Mrs. Frank Orniston, Mrs. Norman Morrison, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Charles Haffner, Mrs. A. J. Lavin, Mrs. E. J. P. SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.
The silver wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Elliott of 169 Harrisville avenue, was fittingly celebrated September 27, when a number of their friends were bidden to enjoy the evening.

The home was very prettily decorated for the occasion with large bouquets of garden flowers and autumn leaves while in the dining room where a temptingly prepared dinner was served, twenty-five streamers of red, white and blue were effectively draped from the central chandelier to the table where a lovely centerpiece of flowers was placed. The decorations were especially effective and appropriate for the twenty-fifth anniversary.

The evening was pleasantly spent in playing progressive high five and enjoying musical selections and at cards dainty little prizes were given Mrs. Hall, Mr. Burton, Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. Romans and Mr. Madden.

Those who spent the evening at the Elliott home were Mrs. Tom Shugrue, Mrs. Leo Shugrue, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Madden, Mr. and Mrs. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Drew, Mr. and Mrs. Shafter, Mr. and Mrs. Romans, Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Frey, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Nottage, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Gallagher, Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Harry Madden, Mr. McBride, Mrs. Woolsey, Mrs. McMannis, Miss Rilla Shugrue, Miss Ruth Nottage, Mr. Fred Madden and Miss Catherine Shugrue.
